

Lisa Amato

Curriculum Vitae

I began mediating in 2007. After 25 years of practicing law as a litigation attorney in Oregon and Washington courts, representing plaintiffs and defendants, I established Amato Mediation and transitioned to exclusively neutral work in 2017. I work with civil litigants and their attorneys at any stage of litigation. I have resolved hundreds of disputes including civil rights, employment, tort, professional negligence, business, real estate, estate and guardianship/conservatorship, First Nations, and complex workplace disputes.

I emphasize transparency, thoughtful evaluation, and curiosity, and I hold the conviction that parties are entitled to a process that respects different viewpoints and goals recognizes that a path forward involves difficult decisions and compromises and values the parties' intelligence and experience. I am forever a student, curious about mediation, negotiation, decision making, and human characteristics. Time-to-time I teach and write about mediation and negotiation strategies.
